SMITH CASE IS ENDED AT LAST.*Jury Finds for Kophart
When Plaintiffs Fail to Make Appearance.*MASONTOWN FIRE CASE IS UP*Louis Miller and Aaron Rodney Placed on Trial For Arson as Result of Last Summer's Destructive Blaze
After Doings of Criminal Court.

CONNELLVILLE, March 14.—The March term of criminal court began this morning, following a week of civil trials. The juryman answered to the roll and after motions and petitions were presented the judges got down to the real work of trying cases.

The suit of Samuel A. Smith and others against H. M. Kophart, executor of the estate of the late John Kophart, was called first. The plaintiff's attorneys were called to the bar and the case was argued. The jury returned a verdict for the defendant.

The only other case before Judge Imbel this morning was that of Jack Hahn, prosecuted by B. Kottler, John Martin and Frank Daly. Hahn is charged with being a nuisance while Officer John D. Temple of the Pennsylvania railroad police force charged the other two with carrying concealed weapons. Attorney P. P. Cotton was appointed to defend Hahn, and H. George May defended Martin and Daly. All three were found guilty.

Before Judge Van Swearingen was taken up the prosecution of Aaron Rodney and Louis Miller, charged with arson. These two men are accused of being responsible for the fire which destroyed the business section of Masontown on July 20, last. This case is being tried on a bench trial.

Attorney Hertzog submitted a motion to quash the indictment on the grounds that the charge is too general and indefinite. The motion was overruled. Attorney McKinnon then moved for a continuance until a further indictment could be drawn. It was also overruled. Attorney Henderson then outlined the case to the jury.

Attorney Henderson stated there are two charges, one for willfully and maliciously burning a building, not a dwelling, and the other being arson. Miller he stated had a store room in the building owned by Charles Bangs. The burning of it caused the destruction of several other buildings. About 1 o'clock on the morning of July 20, fire was discovered in Miller's store. Rodney remained in the building and the motion was to awaken the neighbors.

After the District Attorney called the court took a recess until 1:30.

Attorney Leslie A. Howard of Connellville today filed in court an answer to the rule granted as to why he should not show cause that a writ of attachment should not issue against him for not complying with the order of court that he file an account as guardian of Elizabeth Stout.

Howard explains that before January 11, 1910, he had collected vouchers, receipts and papers necessary to be filed with the account, except tax receipts and rent receipts from the coal and gas company of Connellville. He says that at the time the collection was out of the State.

On January 11, Howard says in answer, he fell on the ice sidewalk and so sprained his hip that he was confined to his bed for three weeks. The court in the case of Dr. A. J. Colborn is filed with the answer.

The petition of R. S. Matthews against John Julia Franco and Josephine Alice Zimmerman, that they be allowed to join in a deed for the sale of certain real estate in Philadelphia, was presented to court today and granted. The children are those of the late J. A. Zimmerman and the share in the real estate would be $10,000. Attorney Matthews filed a bill for $100.

On March 1, he secured the tax receipts and in his account filed says that there is a balance of $17.75 in his hands for Elizabeth Stout.

The petition of R. S. Matthews against John Julia Franco and Josephine Alice Zimmerman, that they be allowed to join in a deed for the sale of certain real estate in Philadelphia, was presented to court today and granted. WAS LOADED.*Two Scottsdale Boys Play Prominent Parts in a Shooting.*JOHN GRUMBLEY THE VICTIM*John McClelland Shot Him With 32-Caliber Weapon, the Bullet Lodging in the Back of the Other Boy's Head.

Special to The Courier
SCOTTSDALE, March 13.—"Hold up your hands," ordered John McClelland, aged about 14, suddenly confronting John Grumbley, 14, aged about the same number of years, out in the country Saturday afternoon. The audacious man had a 32 calibre revolver in his hand, and a moment later pulled the trigger. The ball from the revolver entered the Grumbley boy's neck and lodged somewhere in the back of his head. That is one way the story is told and another is that they were out shooting mark and the unexpected discharge of the revolver caused the accident.

McClelland thought the revolver was not loaded, so it is claimed, and was snapping the apparently empty weapon. It was the same old story of the empty revolver doing the work. Men have not been exempt from this form of folly either.

The accident is the first one of the season when boys are abroad shooting mark, peeping the birds and making people nervous with their shooting. The Grumbley boy's wound is a serious one and may easily be fatal. It is said this morning that the bullet was not yet found, and that the X-rays may be invoked in an effort to locate it. The wounded boy is the son of the well known civil engineer John A. Grumbley of Brownstown.

While the boys were outside of the Borough at the time of the shooting there has been a good deal of complaint about the practice boys have of shooting about town, with their air guns and flourent rifles. All this shooting in the Borough is contrary to both the Borough and the State laws and the police will suppress it whenever the facts are found as they rattle the bullets around recklessly endangering the eyes and the lives of the people.

PLAN CAMPAIGN OF OSTRACISM.

no Strikers in Philadelphia
Make a New Move.

BANKS TO BE BOYCOTTED ALSO

The Printers, Bakers and Brewery Workers of Quaker City Given Until Midnight Tonight to Quit Work or Be "Outlawed."

Philadelphia, March 14.—The Central Labor union voted to boycott the banks and to "ostracize" all union men who fail to go on strike by tonight. The meeting was held in secret.

This resolution was adopted: "Whereas certain bankers have declared their sympathy for the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company in its fight to subvert the carmen's union and crush the general strike and are calling on other bankers to take similar action; and

"Whereas the banks rest on the money deposited by the workmen and women of America; and

"Whereas the workers of the nation have pledged to the Philadelphia strikers their moral and financial support, to the end that they may win in the struggle; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That the Central Labor union of Philadelphia and vicinity hereby calls upon the workmen and women of America and their sympathetic friends, as their first sympathetic act, to withdraw all their funds they have on deposit with the banks, thereby touching the bankers that without the money of the workers their institutions of finance must be a failure, as without the labor of the workers all industry must cease."

Three Unions Under Ban.

The Central Labor union also resolved to ostracize union men who declined to go on strike. The resolution gives them until tonight at midnight to fall in line, or be "outlawed." It is directed against three unions, principally the bakers, the printers and the brewery workers.

No far as the brewery workers are concerned they have been refused permission to strike by their international union, which met in Cincinnati last week and decided that it could not countenance the breaking of agreements without a specific, well-founded grievance.

Members of the Typographical union said that it was nonsense to think that the Central Labor union could compel them to strike. Such action would be impossible without the permission of the international body and none of them believe that the international union will consent.

The same thing applies to the bakers. The latter are well satisfied and it is not likely that all of them would go out, even in the event that their international union gave consent.

The United Hebrew Trades, which includes a body of workers estimated to number more than 15,000, last night voted to remain on strike and not to return to work today. Similar action was taken by the textile workers.

WHY THEY FAIL

Most Pile Remedies Miss The Cause of Piles.

Disagreeable treatment with ointments or suppositories usually fails to cure piles and cutting them off won't remove the cause. Such treatment only moderates the trouble, but does not remove the cause. The only cure is the internal medicine, the only cure is the internal medicine, the only cure is the internal medicine.

Dr. Leonard's Hemorrhoid, the first and only guaranteed internal medicine in the form of tablets—cures any kind of piles. Sold by A. A. Clarke, Connellsville, Pa. $1 for large box. Dr. Leonard's Co., Station B, Buffalo, N. Y.

THE COST OF LIVING.

Railway Magnate Says American People Live Too High.

"The high cost of living," says a great railroad king, "is simply the cost of living high." By this he means that the American people spend too much money for food, clothes, rent, etc., that they live too well. Whether this is true or not, it is certain that no one is living safely whose expenses are not less than his income. A certain proportion of one's income should be saved for emergencies and old age. That's the only safe plan, and the best way to save is to open a Savings Account with a good bank—the First National of Connellsville, for instance, which is absolutely safe and pays 1 per cent interest. $1 opens a savings account.

Tax Notice.

About the 12th of January, 1910, I had a notice published in the daily papers requesting all taxpayers to settle their unpaid taxes; as the various boards to which they belong were in need of money; and, that if the taxes were not paid soon, that costs would be added. So far very few have paid, and now it is up to me to act, which I intend to do without further notice.

There are several industries who pay between the 10th and 15th of this month, and those who do not settle their taxes by the 25th of March, 1910, will pay them with costs.

GEO. B. BROWN.

Wives and Mothers.

Every wife and mother has a right not only to ask for a home—we mean by that a cottage or a palace, as circumstances will permit—but she should demand it. If a man is unwilling to face the issues of life, he should never enter the marriage state. Now, Mr. Man, think that over. Perhaps you have been thinking seriously of it for some time but cannot see your way just clear to build it this time; if that the case maybe we can help you, we have helped hundreds of others to own their own homes and we are willing to help you too. Come in and see us, Connellsville Construction Company.

NEW USE FOR ELECTRIC FANS.

They Will Help Heat a Building as Well as Keep it Cool.

The Electric Fan should not be stored away. Its services are as essential in winter as in summer. It can be used to advantage by placing it in the intake of a hot air furnace to force the circulation of hot air to distant rooms and to heat rooms quickly.

The breeze from an electric fan blowing through a radiator circulates the heated air and gives a more even distribution of heat and warms materially in quickly heating large rooms and halls.

The circulation of heat by the use of the electric fan saves a large percentage of fuel and is well worth trying.

Our Spring Opening

And Now the Aaron Store Announces a Big Double Event for Monday, March 14th First, Our Great Annual Spring Opening

Which lasts but one day, when souvenirs in the form of imported China plates will be distributed to all ladies, while music will entertain our guests in the evening.

Second, Beginning of Our Anniversary Sale

Which event involves reduced prices on this brand new, fresh stock of high grade Furniture, Carpets, Rugs, Curtains and Household Goods of every description.

Last year, you will perhaps remember, our Anniversary Sale did not begin until the day after our Spring Opening. On the first day we did not want to sell goods. Did not want to do anything but entertain the crowds. But we heard several good natured complaints against this. Many persons were unable to attend the opening and then come the next day to take advantage of the reduced prices.

So, this year we combine the two events on the first day. Therefore whether you come only to see the Furniture Show and obtain one of the beautiful souvenirs and hear the music, or whether you come to buy some of the new goods at the reduced prices, you will run no risk of disappointment. Of course the souvenirs will be given away on Monday only, but the Anniversary Sale will continue during the month.

THE RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE GRAND JURY.

In the history of Fayette county no Grand Jury has ever made such sweeping recommendations of county improvements as that jury which delivered its report on Saturday afternoon. It was the result of its official approval on the proposition to sell the Poor Farm with its valuable Connelville coal underling, and to add sufficient thereto to build new and modern and sufficient quarters for the indigent and the criminal classes, and for the enlargement of the present court house to meet the requirements of county government under the law relating to counties having a population exceeding 150,000.

It is estimated that these improvements will cost $750,000. The Poor Farm contains about 160 acres. It was correctly informed, and is held at $1,000 per acre. The record price of Connelville coal is $3.00, but there have been no sales for several years because there has been no coal for sale. It is practically all held by operators save this tract. It is, therefore, possible that the authorities may be able to sell it at the figures set upon it. If so, the county would have a fund of something over $600,000 to make the contemplated improvements, and would be under the necessity of emitting a very small bond issue to make up the deficit. Fayette county is abundantly able at this time to finance the proposed improvements if its proper authorities can consummate the coal sale on the terms indicated.

The people generally demand enough room for convenient transaction of public business, and with the addition of the Orphans' Court and the coming of a Controller and other new county officers, a considerable addition to the court house is an absolute public necessity, a new almshouse is demanded in the name of humanity, and a county workhouse in the name of Justice.

The first step, however, is the sale of the Poor Farm. Is $4,000 per acre bid? What'll buy?

CORPORATE
EDUCATION OF LABOR.

Corporate education of labor is growing in favor. The movement of the H. C. Frick Coke Company in the Connelville coke region is not exclusive. The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has established a school at Ellettsburg for the higher education of its shop apprentices with a view to fitting them for promotion in the company's service.

This new corporate policy is primarily aimed at more efficient service, but it is not devoid of a humanity which we have been taught to believe was not a part of the corporate makeup.

"Corporations have no souls," it is true, but they have managers who are just as human as anybody else; and, customarily they are keen-witted and far-seeing.

The Grand Jury ought to be empowered to appoint a visiting committee to "drop in" on the county institutions any old time between court terms entirely without ceremony. The county officials who can't spare up his time once every three months, after due notice of the day he will be "seen," is either too lazy to hold office or too careless to be a good public official. Such a visiting committee would, perhaps, have saved as much of the jail scandal.

To be hit with a brick is bad enough, but to know that the brick was intended for somebody else does not tend to soothe the feelings of the victim.

Being run over by a freight train is a serious matter, if the victim is permitted to live to tell the tale.

It seems to be a period of industrial unrest, but arbitration is helping some.

To be "on the hog" is to be riding high.

The Fayette Orphans' Court is an old plan all right so far as its quarters are concerned.

The Courier inadvertently did a serious injustice to the memory of Mount Pleasant, Indiana, when it reported that the county officials had decided to erect a new court house, and the fact perhaps aggravated his life and made him a recluse. The law may give the present wife some portion of his modest estate, but justice would not.

How men would kick if their wives asked for an eight-hour day?

The photographers shoot up the whole country when they have their annual meetings, but they never make any business for the coroner.

The proposed Trolley League is not a very serious matter, but it might be trampled from the initial meeting.

In order to interest others in your quarrel you must get busy and fight.

The mock trial of the Young Men's Christian Association will be well attended, and the police will be glad to see the old police.

Colonel Roosevelt is reported to be in a bad condition with no symptoms of the sleeping sickness, personally or politically.

The latest H. & O. mystery was only the difference between crime and knavery.

GRAND JURY REPORT.

Recommends County Work House, Orphanage and Court House Additions.

UNIONTOWN, March 14.—The Fayette county Grand Jury on Saturday afternoon presented a report to Judge Van Swearingen recommending that Fayette county maintain a work house, erect a new county home, provide an orphanage at Uniontown, enlarge the court house and make needed improvements at the county jail. Harry C. Norton of Connelville, as foreman of the Grand Jury signed the report which contains the following recommendations:

We are reliably informed that after the next census, which will be taken this summer, the county will likely have a controller, clerk of the Orphans' Court and a clerk of the Quarter Sessions. These separate offices for which there is absolutely no provision or room in the present Court House.

We are reliably informed and believe from our own inspection of the present building and grounds that ample accommodations can be secured by the building of extensions and additions to, and the remodeling of the present Court House. We believe that this can be done without interfering with the architectural effect of the present building and at a great saving of expense to the county over the costs of an entirely new building.

We would therefore earnestly recommend that the proper authorities proceed at once to secure complete accommodations for the increased business of the county, both in the courts and in the various offices connected therewith, and such other offices as are necessary and proper in the orderly management of the business of the county.

We visited and personally inspected the county jail and beg leave to report to the Court that we found the same, so far as the management, cleanliness and the observance of sanitary rules, in most excellent and admirable shape. There was no entire absence of the kind of so common to all institutions of this kind, and it is with pleasure that we heartily commend the present management of the jail. We found certain conditions therein, which we believe should be altered.

There is insufficient accommodation for the prisoners. There is no sufficient accommodation for the separation of juvenile prisoners from the rest of the inmates of the jail. In the men's department we believe that there should be established a public wash room wherein prisoners could be enabled to wash their clothing at such public wash room instead of in their cells, as now practiced. We think a saving to the county of water bills could be effected by the introduction of at least two shower baths in the men's department.

First—We would therefore recommend to the Court that the proper county officers take such steps as may be necessary to increase the accommodation for female prisoners.

Second—That the proper county officers provide additional room for juvenile offenders entirely removed from all other prisoners.

Third—That the proper officers put in a public wash room or laundry where the male prisoners can wash their clothing.

Fourth—The installation of shower baths in the men's department.

We have had laid before us the prison statistics of the county and the amount expended annually for the maintenance of our prisoners in penal institutions outside of Fayette county; also the inadequacy of our present jail accommodations if it is continued to be used as a place of confinement of offenders after trial instead of a place of detention of prisoners unable to secure bail before trial.

From the facts laid before us we are of opinion we believe that it would be for the best interest of the taxpayers of Fayette county if the work house could be established in this county wherein our prisoners could be taken care of and whatever revenue was derived either directly or indirectly from their labor would go to the benefit of the people of Fayette county.

We further believe that the establishment of a county work house in this county would obviate the necessity for any extensive additions to our present county jail for many years to come; and that the cost of such work house would be but little more than the necessary costs of building additions to the present jail.

First—We would therefore recommend that the proper authorities proceed at once to secure a suitable site of sufficient area for the erection of a county work house.

Second—That the proper authorities proceed as rapidly as consistent with the obtaining of proper economic results, secure plans and erect a county work house.

County Home.

We had our attention directed by the County to the County Home and a recommendation that we visit that institution in all its departments.

We regret to report to the Court that we found the sanitary conditions of this building absolutely bad and the building itself dirty and ill smelling. We are to the building we found it absolutely and entirely unfit for the purposes for which it is intended. It is badly planned and worse constructed when first erected. The floor and roadway of wood cannot be maintained in proper sanitary condition. The plastering is very defective and the whole building is in a condition to make it a veritable pest house, not only for germs, but for vermin of all kinds. It is in no way fire proof and should be so.

We found all the defects set forth in the different reports of the board of visitors to this home.

We would therefore earnestly recommend to the Court.

First—That in view of the great value of the present property, it be sold upon such terms and for the price as may be approved by the Court, the County Commissioners, Board of Visitors to the County Home and a future Grand Jury.

Second—The proper county officers proceed at once to secure a suitable site containing sufficient ground for the erection of a county work house of the county and proceed to erect thereon a modern sanitary fire proof building for the care of the indigent poor of the county.

Third—That the buildings for the care of the poor and insane, in so far as they are to be occupied by them, do not exceed two stories in height and that separate buildings be provided for the various classes of inmates.

Fourth—That sufficient and ample provision be made for the separation of those suffering from infectious and contagious diseases, including tuberculosis, from the rest of the inmates.

Fifth—That a separate and distinct building, sufficiently isolated from the other buildings, be erected and maintained as a pest house, which shall at all times be ready for the reception, detention and care of such persons as shall be properly committed to it.

Children's Home.

We have investigated the condition of the children as laid before us by the Court and find the conditions to be as indicated by the Court in this charge to us last Monday.

Accompanied by a member of the Poor Board and two members of the Board of Visitors, we have visited the site of the Soldiers' Orphan School at Uniontown. We find here ample accommodations for a large number of children, with excellent surroundings.

We believe that it would be for the best interests of the county, and of the children, if arrangements could be entered into with Rev. John A. Waters to make charge of such school at a price to be agreed upon between the proper authorities and the owner.

The school covering a period of say five years. This to be based either upon so much of the present year's income of the county as may be necessary for the premises for period of years and the county furnish everything needed.

We feel that this matter should be referred to the Board of Visitors and an agreement is entered into. In view of the present necessity for such a home, we would recommend that a temporary arrangement be made for the reception of such children as may be committed to the county.

We thoroughly inspected the buildings and grounds, and while the buildings are not new, they are well adapted for school purposes and would last for a good many years. There is an ample water supply and sufficient grounds for all purposes.

In concluding our recommendations and report, we beg further to report to the Court that we heartily approve of the appointment of a board of visitors to the County Home and the work which they have done and by a unanimous vote of this Grand Jury extend our thanks to the board.

The intelligent, courteous and thorough manner in which they have performed their duties and the large amount of labor involved in gathering together and preparing proper statistics for consideration.

THROUGH THE WALL

By
CLEVELAND MOFFETT

Copyright, 1909, by D. Appleton & Co.

"To get him was through his wife and child. They lived in a little house in the woods not far from the place of the shooting. I went there as a peeper in hard luck, and I played my part so well that the woman consented to take me in as a boarder. For weeks it was a waiting game. I would go away on a peddling tour and then come back as a boarder. Nothing developed, but I could not get rid of the feeling that my man was somewhere near in the woods."

Molante entered presently with coffee and cigarettes, which she placed on a table near the green shaded lamp, within easy reach of the great red leather chair where M. Paul was seated.

Suddenly there came a clank at the front gate in the garden and the sound of quick, crunching steps on the gravel walk. M. Pongot had arrived.

M. Lucien Pongot was one of the thirty police commissioners who, each in his own quarter, oversee the moral washing of Paris' dirty linen. M. Pongot was one of the most distinguished and intelligent members of this interesting body. He was a devoted friend of Paul Coquell.

"Well," remarked the commissary when they were settled in their chairs, "I suppose it's the little de Janeiro thing? Some pretty instructions, eh? And he turned to light a cigar. Coquell shook his head.

"When do you sail?" "I'm not sailing."

"What?" "For once in his life M. Pongot was surprised. He knew all about this foreign officer, with his extraordinary money advantages. He had reduced in his friend's good fortune after two unhappy years, and now—now Coquell informed him calmly that he was not sailing."

"I have just made a decision, the most important decision of my life," continued the detective, "and I want you to know about it. You are the only person in the world who will know everything. So listen! This afternoon I went into Notre Dame church, I saw a young girl there who sells candles. I didn't know her, but she looked up in a queer way, as if she wanted to speak to me. So I went to her, and well, she told me of a dream she had last night."

"A dream?" queried the commissary. "So she said. She may have been lying, or she may have been put up to it. I know nothing about her, but even her name, but that's of no consequence. The point is that in this dream, as she called it, she brought together the two most important events in my life."

"What was the dream?" "She said she saw me twice—once in a forest near a wooden bridge where a man with a beard was talking to a woman and a little girl; then she saw me on a boat going to a place where there were black people."

"That was Brazil?" "I suppose so. And there was a burning sun with a wicked face inside that kept looking down at me. She says she often dreams of this wicked face. She saw it first in a distant star that comes nearer and nearer until it gets to be large and red and angry. As the face comes closer her fear grows until she wakes with a start of terror. She says she would die of fright if the face ever reached her before she awoke. That's about all."

For some moments the commissary did not speak. "Did she try to interpret this dream?"

"No."

"Why did she tell you about it?" "She acted on a sudden impulse, so she says. I'm inclined to believe her, but never mind that. Pongot—he rose in agitation and stood leaning over his friend—"Is that forest scene she brought up something that isn't known, something I've never even told you, my best friend?"

"What's that?" "You think I resigned from the police force two years ago, don't you?"

"Of course."

"Every one thinks so. Well, it isn't true. I didn't resign. I was discharged."

M. Pongot stared in bewilderment, as if words failed him, and finally he repeated weakly: "Discharged? Paul Coquell discharged?"

"Yes, sir, discharged from the Paris detective force for refusing to arrest a murderer. That's how this accusation read."

"But it wasn't true?" "Judge for yourself. It was the case of a peacher who killed a guard. I don't suppose you remember it?"

"Down near Saurer, wasn't it?" "Exactly. And it was near Saurer I found him after searching all over France. We were clean off the track, and I made up my mind the only way

HE ROSE IN AGITATION AND STOOD LEANING OVER HIS FRIEND.

I followed the little girl, and, sure enough, she led me to a rough cave where her father was hiding. I hung about there for an hour or two, and finally the man came out from the cave, and I saw him talk to his wife and child near a bridge over a mountain torrent."

"The picture that girl saw in the dream?"

"Yes; I'll never forget it. I had my pistol ready, and he was defenseless, and once I was just springing forward to take the fellow when he bent over and kissed his little girl. I don't know how you look at these things, Pongot, but I couldn't break in there and take that man away from his wife and child. The woman had been killed to me and trusted me, and—well, it was a breach of duty, and they punished me for it. But I couldn't do it. I couldn't do it, and I didn't do it."

"And you let the fellow go?" "I let him go then, but I got him a week later in a fair fight, man to man. They gave him ten years."

"And discharged you from the force?"

"Yes—that is, in view of my past services they allowed me to resign," Coquell spoke bitterly.

"Outrageous! Unbelievable!" muttered Pongot.

Coquell looked at Pongot with an odd little smile. "You take it just as I thought you would—just as I took it myself until today. It seems like a stupid blunder, doesn't it? Well, it wasn't a blunder; it was a necessary move in the game."

"The game? What game?" The commissary started.

"A game involving a great crime."

"You have the facts of this crime?" "No; it hasn't been committed yet."

"Not committed yet?" repeated the other, with a startled glance. "But you know the plan? You have evidence?"

"I have what is perfectly clear evidence to me—no clear that I wonder I never saw it before. Lucien, suppose you were a great criminal, wealthy, educated, daring and resourceful, and suppose there was one person in this city who was thwarting your purposes, perhaps jeopardizing your safety. What would you naturally do?"

"I'd try to get rid of him."

"Exactly," Coquell paused, and then, leaning closer to his friend, he said with extraordinary earnestness, "Lucien, for over two years some one has been trying to get rid of me."

"The devil!" started Pongot. "How long have you known this?" "Only today," frowned the detective. "I ought to have known it long ago."

"What! Aren't you building a good deal on that dream?"

"The dream? Heavens, man," snapped Coquell, "I'm building nothing on the dream and nothing on the girl. She simply brought together two facts that belong together. Why she did it doesn't matter; she did it, and my reason did the rest. There is a connection between this little de Janeiro offer and my discharge from the force. I know it. I'll show you other links in the chain. Three times in the past two years I have received offers of business positions away from Paris, tempting offers. Notice that—business positions away from Paris! Some one has extraordinary reasons for wanting me out of this city and out of detective work."

"And you think this 'some one' was responsible for your discharge from the force?"

"I tell you I know it. M. Giroux, the chief at that time, was distressed at the order—he told me so himself; he said it came from higher up."

The commissary raised incredulous eyebrows. "You mean that Paris has a criminal able to overrule the wishes of a chief of police?"

"Is that harder than to influence the Brazilian government? Do you think Rio de Janeiro offered me a hundred thousand francs a year just for my beautiful eyes?"

"You're a great detective."

"A great detective populated by his own city. That's another point. Why should the police department discharge me two years ago and recommend me now to a foreign city? Don't you see the same hand behind it all?"

"It's queer," Pongot muttered. "But you think some great crime is preparing?"

"Don't you?" asked Coquell abruptly.

"Why—er—" hesitated the other. "Look at the facts again. Some one wants me off the detective force, out of France. Why? There can be only one reason."

"And when—when do you think this crime may be committed?"

"Who can say? There must be great urgency to account for their wishing that I sail tomorrow. Ah, you didn't know that? Yes, even now, at this very moment, I am supposed to be on the steamer train, for the boat goes out early in the morning before the Paris papers can reach Chateaubourg."

M. Pongot started up, his eyes widening. "What?" he cried. "You mean that—that possibly—tonight?"

"And then came one of the strange coincidences of this extraordinary case. On the silence of this room, with its tension of overwrought emotion, broke the sharp summons of the telephone."

"My God!" shivered the commissary. "What is that?" M. Pongot aroused himself with an effort. He put the receiver to his ear. "Yes, this is M. Pongot. What? The Ansonia? You say he's shot? In a private dining room? Dead? Quel malheur! Then he gave quick orders. "Send Papa Tignol over with a doctor and three or four agents. Close the restaurant. Don't let any one go in or out. Don't let any one leave the banquet room. I'll be there in twenty minutes. Good-by."

He put the receiver down and, turning, white faced, said to Coquell, "It has happened."

CHAPTER III.
PRIVATE ROOM NO. 6.

THE night was black, and rain was falling in torrents as Paul Coquell and the commissary rolled away in an auto in response to this startling summons of crime.

"He was in luck to have this storm," muttered Coquell. Then, in reply to Pongot's look: "I mean the thunder. It drowned the shot and gained time for him. Think what it means to commit murder in a crowded restaurant and get away. It means brains, Lucien. Ah, we're nearly there!"

They had reached Napoleon's arch, and the automobile, swinging sharply to the right, started at full speed down the Champs Elysees.

"It's bad for Gritz," reflected the commissary. Then both men fell silent in the thought of the emergency before them.

M. Gritz, it may be said, was the enterprising proprietor of the Ansonia, this being the last and most brilliant of his creations for cheering the rich and hungry wayfarer.

Drawing up before the imposing entrance, they saw two policemen on guard at the doors, one of whom came forward quickly with word that M. Giroux and two other men from headquarters had already arrived.

"Is Papa Tignol here?" asked Coquell.

"Yes, sir," replied the man, saluting respectfully.

THE STAGE AND THE PLAYERS.

Robert A. Fischer, Jane Feamley and Hans Robert; Act I.

THE SOISSON.

"A Gentleman From Mississippi," a much talked of comedy of Washington life, comes to the Soisson theatre, and night. Thursday, March 17, acted by a company headed by Robert Fischer and Hans Robert. The play is the work of Harrison Rhodes and Thomas A. Wise. The main story of the new play has to do with the efforts of a body of "malcontents of great wealth" to "do" the Federal Government for $100,000,000 by obtaining rights on a huge tract of land where a new naval base is likely to be located. These men, banded together as the "Standard Steel Company," have their agents and attorneys in both the Senate and the House of Representatives, and the struggle comes when their plan to push through a measure favoring the scheme is blocked by the now-elected junior Senator from Mississippi, aided by a sagacious young newspaper reporter who loves the Senator's daughter.

"Moulin Rouge Girls" Big Burlesque. The big show is the way the "Moulin Rouge Girls" are billed and when they appear here at the Soisson theatre Friday, March 18 they will endeavor to prove their claim to the name. Twenty-five people compose the company, and dainty, dashing actresses grapple to the extreme to dominate. Of course there are a few comical comedians to entertain between the many bright and spiky singing and dancing numbers beautifully costumed. Two up-to-the-minute burlesques, entitled "The Moulin Rouge Girls' Hall" and "Paris After Dark," several Parlatan novelles, one called "Shadows" never seen outside of Paris before, also Mile Adila, in her famous Snake Dance and a host of others.

Report of The Board of Visitors On The Condition of Fayette Indigent.

UNIONTOWN, March 11.—The Grand Jury gave careful consideration to the condition of Fayette county's home for children, finding their surroundings to be as indicated in the charge of Judge J. Q. Van Swearingen to the Grand Jury when it commenced its work. In addition to its special report of the board of visitors, made to the court, and recommended its adoption and the adoption of the suggestions contained therein, and that the board of visitors be continued in its work.

The board of visitors consists of John M. Carr, Uniontown, C. L. Snowden, Brownsville, William M. Thompson, South Union, Eugene T. Norton, Conneltsville, Dr. P. F. Smith, Uniontown.

Following is the report in full of the board of visitors recently presented to court.

Your board of visitors appointed at the above number, and continued by direction of the Grand Jury at December sessions, 1908, beg leave to submit the following report:

On Feb. 11, January 7th 1910, we inspected the County Home and found conditions generally the same as set forth in the former report with the exception of the bookkeeping. The whole system we found changed and an intelligent and comprehensive set of books installed. These we are of the opinion will be of great benefit to the county if properly kept.

Fayette county now has on its hands about one hundred and thirty or forty indigent children which it is supporting. These are divided up as follows: About fifty are in institutions mostly at Paoli, where there is a State institution for feeble minded children. About eighty have been maintained in four temporary boarding houses in Uniontown. A portion of your board of visitors investigated these temporary boarding houses and found a very deplorable state of affairs. It seems as soon as children become a public charge they are turned over to the Children's Aid Society, who placed them in temporary homes, pending the placing of them in permanent free homes, while the children were in these temporary homes the county paid $1.75 per week for their board, and also furnished clothing and medical attendance. The supply of indigent children has so far exceeded the demand that we have about eighty children in these temporary homes. Some of the children have been there for six, seven or eight years. In one home we found thirty-six or seven white children from two years old to fourteen; we found the sleeping accommodations insufficient, the outside water closet insufficient, the outside water closet inexpressibly filthy, no sufficient table room at which the children could eat, and the woman in charge, in our opinion, entirely incompetent.

In another home where we found seventeen white children, we found conditions as to the care of the children better, but the woman frankly admitted that she could not do for the children at the rate paid as much as they required, at another home we found eight colored children, and conditions not very satisfactory.

The poor directors, having now taken charge of the children, it will be necessary for them to make some disposition of them other than keeping them in the almshouse. If this were not already overcrowded the Act of Assembly of June 7, 1881, P. L. 111 makes it unlawful to detain children over two years of age in an almshouse longer than 10 days. This act requires poor directors to place all pauper children, which come under their charge in some respectable family in this State or some educational institution or home for children; the act further empowers one or more counties to establish and maintain industrial homes for children. This we think should be done at once.

Your board of visitors would respectfully make the following recommendations:

First, That the poor board at once make arrangements for the establishment of a children industrial home in Fayette county; recommending that they make arrangements with Rev. John A. Waters, if that is practicable; if such arrangements be impracticable, that they and the county commissioners, and the court take the necessary steps for the erection of a suitable home.

Second, That the county commissioners at once proceed to make a location of a suitable tract of land of sufficient area and accessibility where to erect buildings to properly administer the charities of the county, and also sufficient land, adjacent if practicable, to erect a work house.

Third, We reiterate our former recommendation that all supplies of the county home should be awarded by contract after due advertising to the lowest responsible bidder, and proper bond taken for the fulfillment of the contract.

Annual Spring Opening.

Tuesday, March 15.

Because of their true portrayal of correct fashion tendencies the importance of our Spring Openings are universally recognized. To the woman who desires to be well dressed this exhibit will be found most interesting.

In every department is displayed the newest goods of the season, merchandise which combines high quality, correct style and full value with extreme practicability. Millinery, Men's, Women's and Children's Ready-to-Wear Apparel; Dress Goods, Silks and Trimmings; Shoes, China, Brae-a-Brae and Cut Glass, are attractively presented.

The exhibit of Ladies' Apparel and Millinery is splendid. Georgette and Vivot pattern hats, and models from our own workroom admirably express the beauties of the Spring Styles. The shapes are as varied as the infinite types of women. In size they range from the chic little toque to the wide branching shapes reflecting the Louis XVI passion for size. Turbans were never so pretty as this year and the beautiful lines of the broad brimmed shapes make them very attractive.

Subdued and softening effects are produced by the clever use of lace, net and mulline. Flowers are used in profusion and only when seen can their exquisite beauty be appreciated. The sparkling, indefinable atmosphere of spring is everywhere apparent.

In harmony with our Easter decorations and the bright cheerful colorings of our spring merchandise will be added Kiferle's splendid orchestra blending its music with the warble of our thirty-six German songsters, each in his separate home.
